

SAMPLE OF A LETTER OF MEDICAL NECESSITY SOAP NOTE; TREATING PHYSICIAN
MUST CREATE ACTUAL LETTER OF MEDICAL NECESSITY WHICH WOULD BE SPECIFIC TO THE PATIENT.

(This is an example and not for actual use)

Subjective:

CC and HPI

Objective:

The patient had an extended visit today to review the functional evaluation results (report attached) and the review included:

- Review and interpretation of the NIOSH test results and records
- Review and interpretation of muscle assessment test results and records
- Review and interpretation of range of motion test results and records
- Review and interpretation of the whole person impairment ratings
- Review and interpretation of the regional impairment ratings

Assessment:

The above company utilizes a patented "computer-aided multiple standard-based functional evaluation and medical reporting system (patent no. 9,940,437)" and this computerized, calibrated, and sophisticated system consummates reliability, reproducibility, and consistency of effort; I don't have comparable equipment to achieve such a high accuracy of measurements.

As I am the treating Doctor, I feel that this patient needs a more comprehensive musculoskeletal evaluation (of which I don't have the capability of performing in my office), therefore I referred this patient to an independent company that performs functional evaluations. My comprehensive initial exam does not give me the specific details needed to measure specifically functional loss.

Disclaimer: We provide the technical component of certain testing services requested by the physician who requires objective data concerning biomechanical function and biochemical condition of a patient. As we do not provide any professional interpretative service, we cannot make any warranties, representations or guarantees concerning the efficacy or suitability of any soap note which has been discussed in this advisory. The use of soap notes must be selected by the physician, based upon those services performed for the benefit of the patient. Since these services may change, dependent upon the patient, a uniform soap note regimen cannot be prescribed. Utilization of the above soap note(s) does not guarantee appropriate use. The above soap notes are a suggested sample. Actual soap notes should be based on actual work by the doctor. As always the doctor is responsible for his/her own soap notes, as we are not the treating physician.

The above company utilizes a computerized evaluation system that will allow me to establish a baseline for this patient's functional abilities, and then guide care; the data of this test will assist me in either validating my current treatment protocol or allow me to modify the patient's treatment protocol by adding or adjusting and/or continuing the treatment plan.

This test will allow me to evaluate, diagnose, and treat my patient in a progressive and evidence based manner. Subsequent tests will allow me to establish global physical function analysis and clinical meaningful improvement in function.

The test results will be utilized to determine pharmacological efficacy, global assessment of disease activity, objectification of functional and pain analysis.

Plan:

Based on the results, the patient showed loss of function consistent with the patient's condition. The functional losses and the deficits the test demonstrates are resembling the patients' subjective complaints.

The results were discussed with the patient and the patient was educated about the baseline study and the functional losses it demonstrates.
